You will find all preference settings for SOGo under “Preferences” towards the top left of the screen.

Here you can change your default module, which will be displayed when you log in to SOGo.

SOGo – Main View

In the column on the left are the folders. All folders which are filled in (darker) have sub-folders which can be displayed by clicking on them.

The centre column displays your Inbox or the contents of whichever folder you have selected. The square icon in the top left can be used to hide and show the folder structure on the left.

Below that is the search bar. Click the magnifying glass icon to enter search terms:
The right-hand column displays the content of the e-mail. Click on the square icon above the e-mail subject to hide the centre column and create more space for the e-mail text. You can hide both the left and centre column to see e-mail content across the width of the screen.

At the top of the right-hand column are the navigation icons. You can use these to switch between the calendar, address book and e-mail. Next to these are the help button and log out button.

Below that are the icons for editing and managing e-mails:

The three dots always represent further options. In this case you can choose from the following:

- Add a tag
- Save As...
- View Message Source
- Print...
- Convert To Event
- Convert To Task
1. Mail

1.1 Compose New E-mail
To compose a new e-mail click on the green pencil icon in the lower half of your inbox. You can choose between opening the e-mail in the current window or a new one. Opening in a new window means you can still refer back to your address book or inbox whilst composing.

1.2 Draft E-mails
You can save draft e-mails and come back to them later. Whilst writing a new mail, click on the disc icon to save it.
To continue working on a draft, go to the folder “Drafts”. Select the e-mail you would like to work on and then click the pen icon on the right-hand side to edit it.

1.3 Accessing your Personal Address Book
When composing an email (answering or forwarding) you can manually type in the name of an address list or an e-mail address. Typing the name of a list will display an auto-complete list of matching address lists and e-mail addresses.

Once you select an address list, all the e-mail addresses saved to that list will be added to the mail.

Alternatively, you can go to the address book display and select the address book you wish to use. Then select one or more address cards by clicking on the person icon. Click on the three dots and choose whether to send the mail “To”, “Cc” or “BCC”. This can be done for e-mail addresses as well as for lists.

1.4 Empty Trash
To delete items from your trash or any other folder, go to the folder and select the mail you would like to delete (1). You can delete a selection or all mails (2).
1.5 Subfolders
When a folder contains subfolders, the icon becomes filled in (1). Click on the folder to open the subfolders. The folder icon will become transparent again.

You can move an e-mail to a folder or subfolder by selecting the e-mail and then dragging it to the desired folder or by selecting the mail and then using the three dot menu and choosing “copy to” or “move to”.
